IMPRISONMENT

The defendant is hereby committed to the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons to be imprisoned for a total term of 97 months.

The Court recommends that Immigration and Customs Enforcement begin removal proceedings during service of sentence.

Defendant Edgar Zamoran-Aispuro, pursuant to a Plea Agreement, filed January 10, 2011 (Doc. 415), pled guilty to the Indictment, filed December 16, 2008 (Doc. 1), charging him with a violation of 21 U.S.C. § 846, that being conspiracy to distribute fifty grams or more of a mixture and substance containing a detectable amount of methamphetamine in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 841(a)(1) and (b)(1)(B). The Plea Agreement stipulates to a sentence of 97-months imprisonment. See Plea Agreement ¶ 5, at 3.

The United States Probation Office ("USPO") disclosed a Presentence Investigation Report ("PSR") for Zamoran-Aispuro on March 22, 2011. In the PSR, the USPO calculated Zamoran-Aispuro's total offense level to be 37. See PSR ¶ 77, at 18. The PSR calculated Zamoran-Aispuro's base offense level to be 34. See PSR ¶ 69, at 16. The PSR contains a 2-level upward adjustment under U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(b)(1) based on Zamoran-Aispuro's possession of a dangerous weapon. See PSR ¶ 70, at 17. The PSR contains a 4-level upward adjustment under U.S.S.G. § 3B1.1(a) based on Zamoran-Aispuro's status as an "organizer, leader, manager, or supervisor in a criminal activity that involved five or more participants or was otherwise extensive." PSR ¶ 73, at 17. The PSR included a 3-level reduction under U.S.S.G. § 3E1.1 based on Zamoran-Aispuro's acceptance of responsibility. PSR ¶ 76, at 18. The PSR lists his criminal history category as I, based on 0 criminal history points. See PSR ¶ 80, at 18. The PSR calculated that an offense level of 37 and a criminal history category I results in a guideline imprisonment range of 210 to 262 months. There being no disputes about the factual findings in the PSR, the Court adopts them as its own.

Zamoran-Aispuro moves the Court for a 97-month sentence. Plaintiff United States of America agreed to this sentence in the Plea Agreement. See Plea Agreement ¶ 5, at 3. At the sentencing hearing on July 27, 2011, the parties agreed to the Court reducing Zamoran-Aispuro's offense level 3 levels pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 3E1.1. The Court adopts the sentencing calculation in the PSR as its own. A criminal offense level of 37 and a criminal history category I produces a guideline sentence of 210 to 262 months.

The Court has carefully considered the parties' arguments and the circumstances of this case. The Court has considered the guideline range for the applicable category of offense committed by the applicable category of defendant. The Court believes that the punishment that the guidelines set forth is not appropriate for Zamoran-Aispuro's offense. The Court agrees with the parties that a sentence of 97 months is sufficient to reflect the seriousness of this offense. Zamoran-Aispuro certainly played an important role in this drug trafficking organization. He was the main partner of one of the other individuals in the organization, who was undoubtedly the leader. From the PSR, it appears that this organization was responsible for trafficking approximately twenty to fifty pounds of methamphetamine per week over at least a six-month period. Zamoran-Aispuro was also responsible for negotiating transactions between the drug-trafficking organization and their California source of supply. The USPO has identified Zamoran-Aispuro as a manager or supervisor in this criminal enterprise. The United States has indicated that it would seek such an enhancement if not for the Plea Agreement. There is a strong case to be made that the Court should sentence more in the guideline range based on the amount of drugs, firearms, and ammunition involved in this case. The United States has pointed, however, to some weaknesses in its case if the case were to proceed to trial, including the amount of drugs for which it could hold Zamoran-Aispuro accountable and its ability to successfully prove by a preponderance of the evidence that all of the sentencing enhancements would apply, including the firearm enhancement. Considering that there was a global settlement for the defendants in this case and also that the firearms were not on Zamoran-Aispuro at the time of his arrest, some variance regarding the firearms is justified. Additionally, the Court has in the past held that weaknesses in the United States' case may be grounds for a variance, because in some cases, such as this one, a sentence of some length is a more just punishment than no sentence at all. The Court has considered the guidelines, but, in arriving at its sentence, has taken into account not only the guidelines but other sentencing goals. The Court believes that a sentence of 97 months is sufficient to reflect the seriousness of Zamoran-Aispuro's crime. The Court also notes that the differences between criminal offense levels in the range of 30 and above can have a significant impact on the sentencing guideline range. Some of the offense level enhancements in this case on which the advisory guideline range depends would require factual determinations that would have been heavily contested but for the Plea Agreement. Accordingly, this agreed sentence sufficiently reflects the seriousness of the offense, is long enough to promote respect for the law, provides just punishment given that a sentence of imprisonment is more appropriate than none at all, is long enough to afford adequate deterrence, both specifically and generally, protects the public, and otherwise fully reflects each of the factors embodied in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a). While the Court's task, as a district court, is not to arrive at a reasonable sentence -- it is to come up with one that reflects the factors in 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), see United States v. Conlan, 500 F.3d 1167, 1169 (10th Cir. 2007)("[A] district court's job is not to impose a reasonable sentence. Rather, a district court's mandate is to impose a sentence sufficient, but not greater than necessary, to comply with the purposes of section 3553(a)(2)." (citation omitted)) -- the Court believes this sentence is reasonable. Perhaps most important in this calculation, the Court believes that Zamoran-Aispuro's sentence is sufficient without being greater than necessary to comply with the purposes of punishment Congress set forth in the Sentencing Reform Act of 1984, Pub. L. No. 98-473, 98 Stat. 1987 (codified as amended in scattered sections of 18 U.S.C.). Accordingly, the Court sentences Zamoran-Aispuro to 97-months imprisonment.

☒ The court makes the following recommendations to the Bureau of Prisons:

The Court first recommends Phoenix Federal Correctional Institution, Phoenix, Arizona; secondarily recommends Tucson Federal Correctional Institution, Tucson, Arizona; and, lastly recommends Terminal Island Federal Correctional Institution, San Pedro, California, if eligible.

☒ The defendant is remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal.

☐ The defendant shall surrender to the United States Marshal for this district:

☐ at on

☐ as notified by the United States Marshal.
